

DANCING AGAIN THE EVENING'S FEATURE

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr.,
Gives Large Party for Miss Rutherford.

MANY OTHERS ENTERTAIN

Season's Debutantes and Young Men of Society Most in Evidence.

Dancing again was the main feature in society last night, several dances being given for debutantes and others. The largest of the night was given by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., at her home, 666 Fifth avenue. It was for Miss Barbara Rutherford, a daughter by a former marriage of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., who this winter is unable to entertain on account of mourning.

It was a brilliant dance, the guests numbering the older as well as the younger generations of society, and they were representative of Newport and the Long Island summer colonies. Before the dance Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs gave a dinner for forty at her home, 1 East Fifty-seventh street. Mrs. Vanderbilt and Miss Rutherford received the guests, and there was general dancing to the music of Conrad's orchestra and Europe's band. A seated supper was served in the dining room at numerous tables, which were handsomely decorated with roses of various colors. The foyer of the house was decorated with plants in bloom and cut flowers.

Dance to Miss Adeline Townsend.

Mrs. J. Allen Townsend gave a dance at the Colony Club for her daughter, Miss Adeline Townsend, that brought together many of the debutantes of this season and last and evening dancing men. Mrs. Townsend received with her two daughters, Miss Adeline Townsend and Mrs. Robert C. Winnill. There was general dancing in the assembly room, which was decorated with festoons of amilax and Christmas trees, from which twinkled colored lights. The gymnasium was used as a sitting out room. After midnight supper was served in the restaurant and roof garden and later dancing was resumed.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolcott Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Tappin, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Thorne, the Misses Ursula Brown, Alexandra Emery, Hazel Symington, Estelle Remy, Sibyl Davis, Mary Cutting Cunnock, Betty Carson, Margaret Andrews, Lisa Stillman, Frances Burr, Mary Watson, Mrs. Taylor, Lenthall Gifford, Julia Eddy, Wendell Condon, Agnes Clifton, Mildred Gautier, Penelope Sears, Constance and Joy Williams, Ruth Moller, Elise Ladew, Genevieve Sanford, Florence and Caroline Wyeth and Margaret Carroll. There were also present Lauren Carroll, Henry Munroe, William F. Phillips, Bryce and Stuart Wing, Edmund S. Twining, Henry Taylor, William Sturgis, Seth B. French, O. Carley Harman, Maynard C. Iverson, Charles R. Hickox, John Larkin, Harvey Ladew, Robert C. Winnill, Sellers McKee, Edward W. Kane, John L. Elliot, Francis H. George, Frederick C. Fennan, Frederick Stillman, Bruce P. Post and Hugh Cotton.

Mrs. Franklin Q. Brown gave a dance last night at her home, 24 East Thirty-eighth street, for her debutante daughter, Miss Dorothy Brown, who returned recently from Europe, where she had been at school. Receiving with Mrs. Brown were the debutantes, Miss Dorothy Brown and Sylvia Brown, who have not yet been introduced to society. On account of the family being in mourning Mrs. Brown has given only formal entertainments for her daughter.

Mrs. Curtis's Party for Miss Adams. Another dance of last night was given by Mrs. C. H. Adams at her home, 1 East Seventy-fifth street, for her debutante daughter, Miss Adams, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Adams. There were several young married people in the party. Among the guests were Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Charles Smithers, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Singer, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter S. Marston, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Pynchon, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Irwin, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Ashford, the Misses Eleanor Davies, Helen Auerbach, Elise von Bergen, Elizabeth Sablin, Marion Vanderhoff, Anna Wight, Gladys Robbins, Laura Ann, Mary Parsons, Constance Peabody, Margaret and Louise Trevon, Misses Hildes, Dorothy Bigelow, Elizabeth Klapp, Margaret Sabin, Alice Guernsey, Katharine and Adelaide Browning, Edith Bouvier, Constance Fairchild, Eleanor Harthorne, Madeleine and Rosalie O'Brien, Misses John R. Gibb, John V. Bouvier, Jr., Paul Chapin, Robert Dougherty, Oliver Ellsworth, Henry Durand, Edwin T. Holmes, Jr., E. Clarence Jones and Charles S. Innan.

Other Dances and Dinners.

Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer gave last night at her home, 7 East Seventy-third street, a dinner followed by dancing for her son, Herbert Pulitzer, who is home from St. Mark's School for the vacation holidays. It was a party for young people who have not been introduced to society.

Mrs. Julian Harriman Meyer gave last night at her home, 10 Park avenue, a dinner for Miss Elizabeth W. Emmons, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Emmons. A dance followed at the home of Miss Grace Dodge, 242 Madison avenue, the guests including the young people who had been at other dances of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schieffelin gave last night at their home, 5 East Sixty-sixth street, a dinner for the members of the bridal party at the wedding of their daughter, Miss Margaret Louise Schieffelin, and Frederick Osborn, which will be celebrated on Saturday. Among the guests were the Misses Alida Livingston, Louise Kissel, Gertrude Mail, Helen Hunt, Alice Appleton, Mary Bishop and Mary Schieffelin, Earl Dodge Osborn, William H. Osborn, William J. Schieffelin, John Jay Schieffelin, Cleveland E. Dodge, Henry P. Osborn, Jr., F. Mayrads, Dorado Dodge, Robert R. Meigs, Matthew Gault, H. Hartley Dodge, George P. Dodge and James Boyd. Later the guests went to the dance given by Mrs. Cleveland Dodge.

CHARITY BALL AT CAPITAL.

Most Brilliant Event of Season Attended by Miss Helen Taft.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The charity ball attracted Washington society this evening to the New Willard. The ball has been favored for many years by the presence of the President of the United States and his family. In the Taft Administration it was the custom of the President to occupy a box at least a part of the evening. Miss Helen Taft, who is visiting friends in Washington, was present tonight with her hostess, Mrs. Lloyd W. Flowers, and her daughter, Miss Martha Flowers.

It was the most brilliant social function so far this season.

Mrs. Flowers received the guests and was assisted by Mrs. Frederick McGuire, Mrs. Horace B.

Not healthy for the gangsters.

TRINITY'S THORN DUE
TOBLOOM TO-MORROW

Grown From Cutting of Glastonbury Tree—St. Joseph's Living Staff.

REVERED AS BEING HOLY

Once Injured Puritan, Who Tried to Chop It Down,
So Story Goes.

Some of the men in the financial district will forget the call of the ticker long enough to-morrow to stroll through old Trinity churchyard and see if the Glastonbury thorn, planted there last year, has blossomed.

The thorn bush came from the ancient Benedictine Abbey in Somersetshire, England, and now stands near the rear of Trinity churchyard near the church. Yesterday it had appeared to be a tiny bush, although the caretakers of Trinity doubted if the thorn would bloom so soon after its removal from England.

"From time immemorial the famous Glastonbury thorn, and also the trees which have grown up elsewhere from its graftings or cuttings, have always blossomed on the 7th of January, which is Christmas Day according to the olden calendar," explained Frederick Cunliffe-Owen, author and editor, who has taken a special interest in the tree.

"It will be interesting to see, therefore, whether the sprig of Glastonbury thorn which was carefully planted last autumn in the churchyard of old Trinity, under the personal direction of its rector, the Rev. W. T. Manning, will blossom there to-morrow—within sight of Wall street."

"The Glastonbury thorn, according to tradition, owes its origin to the white thorn staff of St. Joseph of Arimathea, who, it may be remembered, gave his own tomb in the Holy Land as a temporary resting place for the remains of Christ."

"For centuries it has been revered as the holy thorn, the present tree being of course grown from the cuttings of former trees grown from the staff of St. Joseph."

"There is a most circumstantial story in existence of a Puritan who afterward emigrated to Massachusetts having attempted to cut down the only thorn of Glastonbury by way of showing his contempt for what he was pleased to describe as 'childish and idolatrous superstition.' The legend goes on to say that the Puritan smote the tree once. But the next blow glanced off and dislodged a chip, which flew up and put out one of his eyes, the blade of the axe finding its home in his leg, which was so badly injured that he was lame for life. After this the holy thorn, or at any rate the one attacked by the Puritan, seems to have been left alone."

"The Glastonbury thorn, now in ruins, constitutes the most ancient and historic of Christian shrines in England, being the burial place of many early Saxon kings and of a number of English monarchs, including the Round Table and of his consort, Queen Guinevere, but also of St. Joseph of Arimathea."

FOWLER—GRAM.

Surrogate's Son Weds Granddaughter of Egerton L. Winthrop.

The wedding of Miss Charlotte A. Gram, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gram, and granddaughter of Egerton L. Winthrop, to Robert L. Fowler, Jr., son of Surrogate Robert Ludlow Fowler, took place in Trinity church yesterday afternoon in the presence of a small company of relatives and intimate friends. The Rev. Dr. William H. LOPOUKOWA IN HER DANCES.

Shows Interesting Combination on the New York Roof.

Lydia Lopoukova, who has never danced the so-called modern dances before, was on the roof of the New York Theatre last night. Her new dances may be combined with the training of the Russian ballet school. Miss Lopoukova, who is about to return to Europe, appeared in "The Beautiful Blue Danube," in a polka, "Violetta," and in a dance to the delight of "In the Shadow," which was written in London for Anna Pavlova.

There was of course a difference between the dancing of Miss Lopoukova and her predecessors, but the audience delighted in the grace and finish of her performance. She was assisted by Edmund Makalif, who proved an able associate.

Miss Elizabeth Klapp Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Klapp, who are passing the winter at the Hotel Gotham, announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Klapp, to W. G. Stewart Grant of Hamilton, Ont.

Miss Klapp is a daughter of the late winter, her informal introduction to society having been made at a reception given at the Gotham on December 12. Mr. Grant is the son of Capt. W. A. Grant, and Mrs. Grant of Westergate House, Sussex, England. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Klapp will give a dinner this evening at the Ritz-Carlton for her daughter and a party of young people, who will go later to the Junior Cotillon.

Among the other unusual numbers are a richly wrought Russian rug, a Russian enamel, a Spanish silver, a collection of costumes of Imperial India, potteries of Mexico, carved stone figures from Peru, old Chinese porcelain, Royal Sevres and Dresden, fine old English china and porcelain, French and Dutch faïence, antique Italian, Spanish, Dutch, French and English color prints and engravings, Cloisonné and old Satsuma, embroidered hangings from Spain, Italy, France and Japan, a variety of church and Imperial vestments, and a varied assortment of period furniture.

John Williams.

A Pioneer in This Country in Artistic Metal Work.

John Williams, president of John Williams, Inc., died at his home in Tanglewilde avenue, Bronxville, yesterday morning. He had been ill of pneumonia for four weeks.

Mr. Williams, who was 72 years old, was born in Ireland and came to New York when he was a boy. He began his business career in the employ of Tiffany's. In 1875 he went into business for himself. He was the pioneer in this country in artistic metal work, and he executed many important designs in bronze, brass and wrought iron. The corporation's offices are at 556 West Twenty-seventh street. Some examples of his metal work executed by Mr. Williams are the entrance doors of the Congressional Library, the Vanderbilt memorial doors of St. Bartholomew's Church, the doors of the H. H. Rogers Memorial Church, Fairhaven, Mass., all the metal work in the Boston Public Library, including the doors, which were modeled by D. C. French, the sculptor; the Sigel statue on Riverside Drive, the John Jay statue in Newark, and the assaunt statue in the Pennsylvania Station.

Mr. Williams was a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Natural History and the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and was an associate member of the National Sculptors' Society. He was a member of the Manhattan Club and of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, and one daughter, Mrs. William Leoma.

George Helm.

George Helm, founder of the George Helm Company, one of the leading firms of builders and decorators in New York city half a century ago, died on Sunday at his home, 221 Garfield place, Brooklyn, in his ninety-third year. He retired from business more than thirty years ago. He was born in Hanau, Germany, and came to America in 1848. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Louise Helm, and his daughter, Miss Louise Helm.
